EducationUSA Hungary NewsL: Issue 17/2021

International Education Week Coming Soon!

Hello everyone! October has ended and colder weather has begun to approach. Daylights savings time has ended and we will have a little less sunlight outside but plenty of events here at the EducationUSA center. In two weeks International Education Week will begin and here at Fulbright EducationUSA we will also be organizing and participating in IEW events.

In our next week's Newsletter we will share more info about the online events you can join during International Education Week between Nov 15-19, 2021.

Upcoming Workshops

These workshops provide an overview of the tests and important test-taking strategies. The workshop leader is a native speaker of English who has advised and taught college writing and now teaches university-level courses in Hungary. He will be available to provide assistance and feedback.

A full schedule of our workshops can be found on our website:

Business Degree

Are you trying to decide what type of business degree is the best fit for you? Anyone who wants to attend graduate business school in order to increase their marketability for high-level management positions should consider what type of business degree is the best fit. Individuals seeking business education at the master's level should know that there are important distinctions between M.S. and MBA programs, according to business master's degree recipients. Check out this article for guidance on how to decide between an MBA and a Business M.S. degree: <https://bit.ly/3uZ1jDr>

College in a Small town

Prospective international students seeking to experience a slice of American culture and life may be drawn to the charm of a college in a small town, with its quaint local shops and friendly neighbors. Colleges located in small towns may have smaller enrollment, which can provide international students with more individualized attention from professors, who may know students by name. Considering a college in a small town? Small town colleges often have smaller class sizes and usually offer great opportunities to immerse yourself in the local community. Study in the Midwest

Midwest Colleges

While researching your options for U.S. study, be sure not to overlook the many excellent colleges and universities located in the Midwest. Commonly referred to as America's breadbasket, the Midwest region is home to some of the United States' most famous and beautiful landmarks. Learn more here: <https://bit.ly/3BcK6bf>

Education is for improving the lives of others and for leaving your community and world better than you found it.
