CARROLL UNIVERSITY (WI) VICTOR VEGA SCHOLARSHIP

Victor Vega Scholarship:

Award Amount: $6,000/year for a maximum of four years (in addition to the standard financial aid package which is usually between $12,000 and $16,000!)

Number of Awards: 1

Entry Requirements: All students from South America who submit a complete Fall 2014 international undergraduate application by July 23rd, 2014 will be considered for the award. No additional application required.

Application instructions:

Complete a Carroll University international undergraduate application. No application fee! Send us your official transcripts from secondary school and any university work (transcripts must include official English translation), and your English Proficiency Scores.

Send to:

Office of International Education
Carroll University
100 N. East Avenue
Waukesha, WI 53186

This is one award and most international students receive between $12,000 and $16,000. This means that, if selected as the Victor Vega Scholarship recipient, your annual scholarship package would likely be anywhere from $18,000-$22,000 each year! That reduces the cost of attendance at Carroll University by nearly half (or more)!

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY (DC) COMMUNICATION, CULTURE AND TECHNOLOGY PROGRAM ANNOUNCES FIRST ONLINE COURSE

The Communication, Culture and Technology (CCT) M.A. program is excited to announce the launching of its first online course, (CCTP 798) - Key Concepts in Technology and How to Use Them, this Fall 2014. CCT Founder and Associate Professor, Martin Irvine, developed this course as part of his receiving one of Georgetown's ITEL grants, which represents the university's new initiative for greater tech-enhanced learning.

This course will provide students and working professionals with important conceptual and analytical tools for understanding the key concepts behind our current media and computational technologies. The course will be taught entirely online using Georgetown's Blackboard course platform with video and multimedia presentations, and real-time video conferencing.

THE DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY LAUNCHES ENHANCED WEBSITE FOR SCHOOLS AND INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) launched an enhanced Study in the States website with four new features. The features enable the Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP), housed within U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's (ICE) Homeland Security Investigations (HSI), to convey pertinent information to stakeholders about the international student process in a clear and interactive manner.

The new features include:

- An interactive glossary to find definitions to the most-used terms in the international student process.
- An "Ask a Question" section to get the answers to commonly asked questions about studying in the United States or school certification.
- An enhanced School Search page to locate schools certified by the Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP) to enroll international students across the United States in a comprehensive list or on an interactive map, by name, state, educational program or visa type.
- A mobile-ready version of Study in the States so users can easily view the site on their smart phones or tablets.
