EducationUSA Hungary NewsL: Issue 2/2019

Alumni: A Future University Student's Best Resource

In the next couple of newsletters we will have insight from fellow Hungarians about their own experiences living, studying, and teaching in the United States. While the process of selecting and applying to universities in the United States may seem daunting at first, having a network of Hungarian alumni to get advice from can be immensely helpful. This is why it is so important to start the research and application process early: so that you can make connections with fellow students who have already been where you want to go. At the EducationUSA Advising Center, we are here to serve as a bridge between potential students and previous alumni. Take advantage of these resources by contacting us before your application deadlines have passed!
